INFO.

- 1. On 28 December 1951, 34 students left Nan Fang University in Canton to go to Nanning. They had studied local civil administration, communications, education, and police administration, and had passed examinations which were held in December. On 29 December 1951 these students left Nanning for Indochina by way of P'inghsiang (106-bh, 22-06) where they will enter the government service of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam.
- 2. In mid-December 520 young men who had recently been recruited by the Vietnamese Communists were transferred from Cao Bang to Wuming (108-15)23-12). They will take a two months training course for automobile mechanics and drivers which will be conducted by Chinese Communists. Upon completion of the courses the students will be returned to Indochina to be employed as drivers.
- 3. The Wuming training center was established recently according to plans drawn up by six Soviets. The center consists of 30 tents and eight large grassroofed houses which will be used as dormitories and class rooms. Over 30 large and small military vehicles have been transferred to this training center temporarily for training purposes. Part of the training staff consists of employees of the Kwangsi Provincial Highway Administrative Office.
